

Introducing Interest in My College

POWERED BY COLLEGE BOARD SEARCH

Build connections based on mutual interest

Looking to connect with students who are already thinking about your institution? Interest in My College allows your enrollment team to filter your College Board Search queries to find students specifically interested in your institution.

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS:

- Millions of students visit our BigFuture™ college planning site each year to create a college list.
- Once a student has opted in to the program, their College Board Search record is updated with the institutions they've added to their college list.
- Institutions who use College Board Search have access to a filter that allows them to search for students who indicated interest in their institution.
- Search users also see an "Interested in My College" flag next to students in all Search orders so they can identify students in primary market Searches who've shown interest.

Institutions who participated in our pilot found that students who expressed interest were 10x more likely to apply to their institution when compared to the rates of traditional Search students.

"I'm excited to have a new Search option associated with a college search tool that's widely used and respected. In an increasingly competitive landscape, any opportunity to broaden outreach to prospective students is valued and desired."
